One-twelfth of the inhabitants were devoted to the service of religion in regular office; forty-eight cities of the priests, or four to each tribe proportioned, were distributed through the length and the breadth of the land; forty-eight theological seminaries, for the nurture and qualification of those who were to officiate in holy things; and all this, besides the public solemnities of the metropolis, and as tributary to them; to say nothing of details and duties and provisions adequate to such a divine establishment. And were their wants greater than ours? Are not men born ignorant and alienated now, as they were then? Are miracles to be expected such as never were, to work our moral regeneration 1 Or are we to use no means for the evangelical interests of the nation and the world 1 Are the ends inconsiderable, or the objects preposterous, at which we aim 1 Or is it best to do nothing, but waste time, squander power, sink intellect, violate duty, forget God, defy eternity, and sink into the grave unblest by the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ? Time forbids enlargement here. We are next to consider II. The Character Of Such A Ministry As THE CHURCH REQUIRES, IN THIS COUNTRY AND AT THIS EVENTFUL PERIOD OF THE WORLD. On this occasion I would state at least, to this respected auditory, some of my own views on the subject; descriptive of the training which...
